Footnotes

HUNTER O'RILEY got corrected after breaking slightly to the outside, went about on the backstretcch one-paced while off the inside, picked up interest when let out a notch at the half mile pole, circled past MIDNIGHT midway on the turn, but except for that action was three wide on the turn, gained control a few jumps prior to the quarter pole, drew off to a sizeable lead before being geared down in the final sixteenth. MEMORIES OF PETER broke on top and maintained the advantage, was along the inside fending off MIDNIGHT HAWK during the initial stages, found himself loose on the lead after the aforementioned foe backed away as three-quarters was being completed, got headed leaving the five-sixteenths pole, made it into the stretch and held on well enough to salvage second. MISSION DRIVEN took up the chase from the two path and was never invovled. MIDNIGHT HAWK had the rider take hold after initially shying out and away from HUNTER O'RILEY, went to assume a forward position, vied for command from the two path down the backstretch, began to lose his best action shortly after stepping off the backstretch, fell back to last coming to three-eighths pole, got eased, then pulled up and was subsequently vanned off.
